THE CHINAMAN IN HAWAII.

The patient, plodding, persevering Chinaman is making a big furrow in this little country. He is steadily and surely working himself into every industrial pursuit and every avenue of trade; and where he enters his forerunner ultimately exits. His encroachments are first and most felt by the native, who is not so capable of checkmating his manoeuvres as the more dextrous foreigner. Already the occupation of the native woman, as washerwoman and laundress, is totally gone. The native man, too, is being rapidly pushed out of his place as taro planter and poi vendor. Carpenters and cabinet-makers, tailors and shoe-makers, and all other trades and handicrafts, and every branch of retail business, sensibly feel the Chinaman's keen and invasive competition. This rapid advancement is largely, perhaps mainly, due to his superior industry and economy; and the surest way for others to keep abreast of his progress is, to acquire his industry and practice his economy. It has, undoubtedly, been greatly to the Chinaman's advantage to have encountered so little opposition in the form of national prejudice and race antipathy. Neither in California, nor Australia, nor the islands of the Indian Ocean, nor his own native land, nor in any other country where he is permitted to plant his foot, does the Chinaman receive the same humane treatment, or is allowed the same equal rights, as are accorded to him in KALAKAUA's Kingdom. And precious little return does he make, in numberless instances, but ingratitude and insolence. In these the Chinaman is not to be commended, nor worthy of being imitated; but for persevering industry and rigid economy his example is deserving of consideration by all who aspire after competence and independence. The oft-repeated assertion, that the Chinaman has no object but to accumulate money and take it out of the country, or that he invariably accomplishes that purpose, is not fully true. In nine cases out of ten, he certainly comes here with that settled intention, and in a majority of cases, what he acquires he sends or takes away. But Honolulu is not without instances of Chinamen who came here with no money, have amassed wealth in the country, and still remain here freely circulating their riches.

AN ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENON.

(TELEPHONED FROM WAIMANALO.)

At 4 A.M. on Saturday morning a small star shot out of the comet and went right through its tail.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

A young man named Thomas Lynch, who was, up to three weeks ago employed as bar-keeper at the Hawaiian Hotel, died there suddenly about 6 A.M. on Saturday. He had been complaining of feeling unwell, and on Friday night slept with a friend of his employed in the Hotel. In the morning he appeared to be in a fit, and Dr. Webb was immediately sent for, but before he arrived the man was dead. A post mortem was held at the Hospital, where the body was taken. It revealed the fact the deceased had congestion of the lungs; enlargement of the liver, and nothing whatever in his stomach.

POLICE COURT—DECEMBER 9. CRIMINAL DOCKET.

Preston Davis, common nuisance. Keeping common gambling house on Smith street. Committed to prison four months. Costs $1.60.

R. Richardson and Wm Brown. Gaming. Nol. pros. entered by prosecution.

Sam Beckford, gaming. Committed to prison for 10 days, to pay a fine of $10 and $1.10 costs.

J. P. Mitchell and Edward Kiehl, gaming. Committed to prison for 24 hours each, to pay a fine of $10 and $1.10 costs each.

Kaia, charged with larceny at fish market. Acquitted.
Namaka, violating Rule 6 of Rules for Licensed Carriages, fined $3 and $1 costs.

DEATH OF A PIONEER.

The Rev. Titus Coan died at Hilo on Friday Dec. 1st, aged 81 years and 10 months, one by one the pioneers of Christianity are passing away. His death was not unexpected, but is none the less sad now that it has come. His intellect was clear till the moment of his death. He landed in Honolulu in June 6th, 1835.

THE CURSE IS SPREADING.

Gradually the native is learning the Chinese vices. Yesterday Morning Captain Wm. Tell made a raid on a house mauka of the Kaumakapili yard, and captured a native man and woman in the act of smoking opium. They will be brought up this morning.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Moi Keiki left at 10 A.M. on Saturday for Christmas Island. This time she has only the captain, mate, and two seamen on board.

The Mokoli left at 5 P.M. on Saturday for Molokai, with about 30 lepers and a good deal of freight.

The shipment of rice went by the H. W. Almy was the second largest by any ship at one time from this port. She took 5,204 bags.

The D. C. Murray arrived on Saturday afternoon, 21 days from San Francisco. She brings about 80 hogs.

KAHULUI NOTES.

The sehr Anna, Capt. McCulloch, and the bkine W. H. Dimond, Capt. Handlett, sailed on 6th inst. for San Francisco, the former in ballast and E. G. Kuster as passenger, and the latter with 3,312 bags sugar, weighing 373,735 lbs., and 64 barrels molasses, valued at $24,976.17 and the following passengers: Mr. and Mrs. Rowland and G. Graenemeyer. The brig Pomare, Capt. Drew, arrived Dec. 8th, with a general cargo from San Francisco.

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS.

The only son of Mr. Fairnworth was drowned at Kahului on Saturday.

Our readers will notice in another column an advertisement of some concentrated cider, which we have tried, and can say that it makes a really good and pleasant drink.

While assisting a lady passenger to land on Friday night the Captain of one of our inter-island steamers fell overboard. He was promptly fished out by some kanakas on the wharf.

One of the decorations on a shop-front in this town is a spider's web. A wag suggests that it is intended to represent the invitation:

"Will you walk into my parlor?
Said the Spider to the Fly."

OFFICER Mehrtens gave evidence on Saturday as to how neatly he had captured the five men engaged in gambling in the house on Smith street on Thursday night. The game played was called "Twenty-one."

A Chinese laborer hung himself in a most determined way on Sunday, the 3rd inst., at Kapan, Kauai. He tied the rope round his neck, fastened it to a rafter, and jumped off a box.

Our readers' attention is drawn to the fact that the Library and Reading Room Association will not hold their usual fortnightly entertainment to-morrow night, as the Honolulu Dramatic Club will give a performance that evening.

On Friday morning an express driver lost the control of his horse twice. It ran away each time, but did no particular damage, except that once it got clear of the carriage, leaving it, and the driver sitting in it and gazing after the flying animal. Since then it has been fixed up so that it cannot escape from his control.

Mr. Jaeger is gradually getting a few seeds sent to him of Hawaiian forest trees. He has received some milo seeds this last week. He assures us that it is very difficult to get seeds of some kinds of trees. This ought not to be so. We trust some of our readers will endeavor to procure some of the seeds required by Mr. Jaeger in his laudable efforts to re-clothe the mountains of Hawaii with forests.

We noticed last week in Mr. Thrum's Fort street store some very neat little hand-painted Christmas cards, by Mrs. Strong. Some of them are characteristic of these islands, and would make elegant souvenirs for friends abroad. Mr. Strong has also contributed to the same establishment two very handsome wall plaques, representing sprays of island flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Strong have but lately come to our shores, and we welcome these evidences of their artistic talent with pleasure.

We are happy to state that the paragraph referring to the negligence of the Government in not having the branches of trees overhanging the streets, trimmed, is incorrect. The Hon. A. S. Cleghorn has had this matter placed in his charge by the Minister of the Interior for over a week. Those whose business calls them along King street towards Waikiki will be able to see what has already been done in this direction. As soon as that street is finished others will be undertaken.
